Mitchell backs rail study

But won't predict if restoring passenger service through Bethel would make economic sense

By MICHAEL DANIELS

U.S. Sen. George Mitchell said Friday that the extension of passenger rail service through Bethel would be a logical next step once passenger service is established between Boston and Portland.

Mitchell's comments came in a telephone press conference with a number of western Maine newspapers. The senator had called the conference to announce new programs slated for the White Mountain National Forest (see box).

Reestablishing passenger rail service to Bethel, from both Portland and Montreal, is a key component in the Victoria Station commercial development proposed for Cross Street.

But Mitchell, while calling for the study of such an extension, stopped short of predicting that the restoration of passenger service is a sure bet.

"If it makes sense to bring it to Portland, then we ought to consider extensions that make economic, fiscal and transportation sense," he said, "but I'm not able to say with certainty that the economics would support an extension."

Passenger rail service is expected to be extended to Portland sometime in 1994, underwritten in part by federal funding of Amtrak, the national passenger rail service.

Mitchell, the U.S. Senate majority leader, has been a strong advocate of the Portland passenger rail revival. He said the reestablishment of passenger service had strong support from the people of Maine but strong opposition from other sources.

He said Friday that a Portland-to-Montreal link-up (through Bethel) is one of two "logical next steps" once the Portland connection is established. The other (and more often discussed) route would run north from Portland through Waterville and, eventually, on to Bangor.

"Obviously, we can't go further up unless we first restore the link between Boston and Portland," he said. "But we ought to consider extensions of service where they make sense."

Rural health care

Mitchell also pledged Friday to seek more start-up funds for rural health care centers, and to see that they are included in the comprehensive health care proposal that President Clinton will present to Congress.

The senator, who is expected to introduce the president's plan in the Senate, said he had met several times with both the president and with Hillary Rodham Clinton, who is chairing the president's health care reform task force.

"And I'm going to do everything I can to see that rural interests are represented in the bill," he said.

Mitchell also touted the president's budget proposal as the best way to encourage small businesses development and increase employment opportunities in rural areas.

Greenwood tire dump

DEP issues new ultimatum

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Department of Environmental Protection is once again asking Peter and Susan Gordon to bring their Rabbit Road tire dump in compliance with state law or face possible prosecution.

The DEP issued a consent agreement last week to the Gordons, who were given 14 days to sign it.

The details of the agreement will not be made public unless the Gordons sign it and the Board of Environmental Protection approves it.

But Environmental Specialist Michael Parker said the gist of the proposal calls for the Gordons to move tires from the dump and guarantee an ongoing outflow to a recycling source. The agreement also set time limits for compliance, Parker said.

"If he doesn't sign the agreement, one of the options is that we go and get a court order to stop any import of tires to the site. That's essentially the only option I'm going to pursue," Parker said.

The DEP has in the past padlocked the gates to other tire sites, he said.

Greenwood selectmen met with Parker last week expressing frustration and skepticism about enforcement by the state.

"We still have no idea if they will actually close him down or just continue making promises to us without results," Selectman Marie Bartlett said.

Selectmen have received numerous reports of large truck loads of tires being hauled to the site, she said.

"The state should have issued an order to stop this from happening until a settlement is reached," Bartlett said.

Senator unveils planned WMNF improvements

Two proposed improvements to the local Evans Notch District were unveiled Friday by U.S. Sen. George Mitchell. Funds for the improvements are included in a current Senate Interior Appropriations bill.

"The Senate bill provides $500,000 for land acquisition," Mitchell said. "I'm told by the Forest supervisor that they intend to purchase, with this, the so-called Grover Lot located on the New Hampshire-Maine border. This heavily-used lot is an important snowmobile trail and bridge access across the Wild River. In addition, they are going to expand and improve the Mount Hastings Mountain Bike Trail. These developments with additional funds for trails, campgrounds and visitor information facilities should make the forest that much more attractive to visitors and, hopefully, encourage them to return."

Evans Notch District Ranger Rollie Orton said the land purchase would allow the Forest Service to stabilize snowmobile routes through the area, especially the north-south trunk ITF 80, and to provide for improved recreational and timber-harvesting access to the area.

The Grover Lot is a 439-acre, dogleg-shaped parcel lying along Route 2 and down the Maine side of the state line.

The parcel includes the mountain bike trail approach to Mt. Hastings, but the trail is currently off-limits to recreational use due to ongoing logging operations. (Mt. Hastings is located approximately one mile southwest of the Hastings Campground, off Route 113.)

The U.S. Forest Service is currently engaged in preliminary negotiations with P.H. Chadbourne Co., owner of the Grover Lot, Orton said.

In announcing the proposed improvements, Mitchell pointed to the economic benefits of the Forest for local businesses and the forest products industry.

"As we all know, the Forest is a significant natural, recreational and economic resource for the people and businesses of western Maine," he said. "Approximately six million people a year enjoy the Forest; and, of course, that traffic is good for local business. We all know that it is an important source of raw materials for the local forest products industry."

"The bill has been approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee. It has not yet come before the Senate, but I expect it to come before the Senate sometime in the next few days."

Voters OK $6M school budget

By WENDY HANSCOM

This year SAD44's budget will top $6 million for the first time.

It took 116 SAD44 voters less than half an hour last Wednesday to pass the district's FY '94 budget of $6,090,076.

Voters called for only minor clarification of two of the budget articles; the remaining articles passed without discussion.

Bethel Director Merton Brown made the only statement in opposition to the budget.

"I'm voting against this budget not so much as it could be decreased," Brown said, "but because I feel the distribution could be better."

But just a smattering of people joined Brown in voting against any of the articles.

Voters approved $168,201 for NOVA, $4,662 for NOVA adult education, $54,915 for SAD44 adult education and $3,361,766 local assessment for the general fund.

District residents also accepted $2,728,300 in state and other subsidies.

The $6 million-plus budget is up 2.07 percent from the FY '93 budget of $5,966,070.

Because of cutbacks in state subsidy, the local school tax bill will go up roughly 7 percent.

Andover's assessment will go up 5.08 percent to $457,153, Bethel up .04 percent to $1,129,216, Greenwood up 4.57 percent to $480,728, Newry up 14.98 percent to $894,490 and Woodstock up 13.82 percent to $455,103.

William Clough of Bethel moderated the meeting.

Mountain bikers relearn important lesson

Sunny day trip ends in cold night in the woods

THAT'S WHY THEY SAY "BE PREPARED"—A group of mountain bikers stopped briefly Sunday (upper left) at a bridge over the Wild River, before heading off deeper into the Evans Notch District of the White Mountains National Forest, and later in the day (above) they were treated to scenic backcountry views. But ambitious excursions into unfamiliar territory can have their perils. At the end of the day a trail printed on a commercial guide peetered out in the puckerbrush, and the four bikers initially attempted to bushwack the remaining two miles to their destination. But as darkness fell and walking became increasingly hazardous, they bowed to the inevitable and prepared to spend the night in the woods. "We didn't want to make a bad situation worse by having someone get injured," said Rick Boucher of Bethel. The group had prepared only for a five- or six-hour day trip, so they were ill equipped for a long, sometimes rainy night huddled around a feeble campfire on a steep, wet hillside—without benefit of sleeping bags, dry clothes or food. "If we hadn't been able to make a fire it could have turned into a very dangerous situation," Boucher said, "since hypothermia can be a real threat, even in mild weather, especially if you're tired. But with the fire we knew we'd be OK—miserable, but OK. We were mainly concerned with the people who were home worried about us." Sitting around the fire in the small hours of the morning were (from left) Boucher, Fred Aberle and Steve Goodman, both of Auburn, and (not shown) Michael Daniels of Greenwood. Officials at both Outward Bound and Wilderness Medical Associates in Bryant Pond concurred with Boucher's warning about hypothermia: if you're going into far the woods, even in mild weather, they cautioned, be prepared to stay warm if you are forced to spend the night.

NO TO REVERSE POSTING

To the Editor:

I am asking people to refrain from signing a petition that may be presented to this fall.

The petition proposes a "reverse posting" law. This law would require property owners to post their land if they allowed hunting.

Not only would this be very expensive for the landowner, it would be very difficult for the game wardens to enforce.

The Sportsman's Alliance of Maine recognizes that there are, unfortunately, a very few "slob hunters" who do not respect the environment and mistreat property.

SAM is working hard with members and other sportsman's groups to educate and help enforce proper behavior for all who use the Maine woods, streams, rivers and lakes.

Persis G. Post
Bethel

AND ANOTHER NO

To the Editor:

Maine citizens should be concerned about an anti-hunting initiative. People are, or soon will be, collecting signatures to force a referendum calling for the reverse posting of private land.

Reverse posting would require owners to post their land if they want to allow others to hunt on it. This would mean considerable expense on the part of the landowner and would virtually end hunting in the State of Maine, another devastating blow to our sluggish economy. I urge citizens not to sign these petitions.

Yes, there are careless and irresponsible hunters just as there are careless and irresponsible hikers, fishermen and women, cross-country skiers, mountain bikers, snowmobilers, and ATV users. These people, however, represent a very, very small minority. Let's not punish the vast majority of responsible women and men who enjoy the outdoors, who respect the environment, and who respect other people's property. The key to solving the problems of a few bad apples is through education, working with both landowners and users; and, if necessary, through laws that protect landowners and punish only the guilty.

My wife, Lee, and I own a 155-acre tree farm that is managed for wildlife, timber resources and recreation. We have not had problems with hunters or other users and would like to keep it that way. Let us all work together—individuals, landowners, local fish and game clubs, the Sportsman's Alliance of Maine, and the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife to provide a healthy environment for both people and wildlife.

PLEASE FILL OUT SURVEY

To the Editor:

The Regional Partnership of Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry, and Woodstock has begun its effort to establish a community-wide organization whose purpose is to decrease the level of substance abuse among the residents of the area. It was formed early in 1993 as a result of a grant application made by the Community Chemical Awareness Team (CCAT). The Partnership is associated with the Western Regional Council on Alcoholism and receives direction and support from that agency.

The Regional Partnership has three main goals for this year. The first goal is to establish a profile of the community through collection of data. This profile will help to determine the situation as it actually exists. The profile will include statistics related to the use of alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs. Once the profile is determined, an action plan will be developed based on the needs identified in the profile. The Partnership believes that any action plan needs to be based on what is actually happening, rather than on what someone thinks is happening. The final goal for this year is to present a program in September which will focus on the costs to the community of "impaired driving," in other words, driving under the influence of alcohol and/or other drugs.

At the present time, the Regional Partnership is being led by a committee which includes Audrey Brooke, Lillian Conant, Rev. Brendon Bass, Ann Holt, Sally Hanon, and Madeleine Henley. Rodney Abbott is acting as the Partnership's area coordinator for the remainder of the summer. A number of people have recently indicated an interest in joining the Partnership or in helping the Partnership with its projects. If you think you have the time and interest to help in any way, please contact one of these people to find out how you can help. You can contact Rodney Abbott at one of these numbers: 824-2771, 824-2136, or 674-2267.

A survey developed by the Regional Partnership was mailed last week to a number of people in Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry, and Woodstock. The names of the people receiving the survey were chosen at random by an independent agency, are unknown to the Partnership, and all answers to the survey are completely anonymous. The results of the survey will be made public and will be a very important part of the community's profile. The Regional Partnership urges anyone who receives the survey to participate by taking the time to fill out the survey form and return it in the stamped, self-addressed envelope that came with it. Please help. Please participate.

PARK PLAYGROUND THANKS

To the Editor:

We've had a very successful summer raising money for the Davis Park Playground. Thanks to local support and two grants we're well on our way to our $20,000 goal.

This may confuse some people since it looked like we were trying to raise $8,000. Well, we were, and we did. The $8,000 was needed to match a Jobs Bond Grant. We have matched that with monetary donations and donated labor and materials.

A grant received from the Bingham Betterment Foundation helped us to reach that goal. We are very grateful to the people at the foundation for their generous support.

The grand total received so far in monetary donations is over $14,000—only $6,000 away from $20,000. We are very excited. Anyone who knows a small child should be very excited with us. This park will be an asset to our community, a place for our young children to learn, grow, and socialize with their peers, a place for moms and dads to convene to get to know each other. We are very excited.

As usual we have many people to thank. Most recently we had a raffle which began Mollycodd Day. Thanks to all of you who stopped by our table and lended support by buying a raffle ticket. We have four great prizes which were donated by local businesses, dinner for two at either the Sudbury Inn, the Four Seasons Inn, or the Sunday River Brewing Company (Moose's Tale Restaurant) or two rounds of golf at the Bethel Inn.

I can't thank these folks enough for helping us out. You can still buy raffle tickets from any of the committee members: Marie Keane 824-2608, Marci Baker 824-2213, Marilyn Swan and Liz Smith. You can find Marilyn easy enough since

From the Bethel Town Office

A grant for the state share of the cost of the interim closure of the landfill was approved on July 29. The closure will begin in mid-August. When completed, Bethel will be in compliance with all state and federal regulations concerning the disposal of solid waste. However, the story does not end.

There are many ways in which the town can reduce the cost of solid waste disposal. While the pay-per-bag proposal is currently on a back burner, we still need to put some effort into cost reduction. Following is some information concerning the costs and benefits of our participation in Oxford County Solid Waste Corporation, and a couple of thoughts for future consideration.

Our cost for recycling is the same no matter how much we recycle, and we pay about $14,000 a year for our recycling program. For every ton of household waste that we recycle, we avoid around $90 in hauling and tipping fees and miscellaneous expenses. Crunching those figures, you realize that after the first 155 tons of residential waste is recycled, each extra ton recycled results in a savings to the town of $90. But in order to reach that break-even point with household recycling, Bethel would need to push nearly 13 tons per month through the recycling center.

The potential volume of recyclables is much higher at the commercial level, but the break-even point for these generators is over 16-and-a-half tons per month. This is because for commercial waste generators and other curbside customers, the tipping and hauling cost to the town amounts to approximately $70 per ton. Obviously, we need to have a good mix of recycling, since neither sector can hit the break-even point alone.

The latest figures show that we are recycling an average of 7.5 tons per month, with 12 percent of that coming from Gould Academy and SAD44. When the magazine and catalog recycling comes on line, we'll do much better, but still, we need to renew our effort in this direction. We probably won't break even unless all the businesses in town get very serious about office paper, computer paper and cardboard recycling, and all the households recycle all their paper, glass and cans. We have a long way to go, but other towns are doing it, and I am confident if Bethel citizens renewed their commitment, they could save a bundle.

Possibly an easier way to save money would be the recycling of bulky wastes. We could avoid $106 in hauling and tipping fees per ton if we did not dispose of clean wood and yard waste by dropping it into the container at the transfer station.

The composting of clean wood and yard wastes with municipal sludge has been successful in Maine. It offers some interesting benefits to Bethel, and perhaps could be attempted here in an experimental way. I would be very happy to talk to anyone interested in heading up a small pilot program. Town employees are knowledgeable and willing to assist, and some money is available for this project.

Another possibility would be to work with the private sector to develop an alternative disposal method for bulky wastes, such as a licensed stump dump and then charge people who still choose to use the town facility for the town costs. Again, if there is a citizen who is interested in spearheading something in this direction, please, make your presence known.

Driver accused in Parisien's death wants evidence dropped

By LISA WILLIAMS ACKLEY

The court-appointed lawyer for Derek M. Bonney of South Paris, charged in the death of Jean Paul Parisien of Auburn, will present a motion Aug. 5 in Oxford County Superior Court to suppress sobriety test results, physical evidence and statements made by Bonney shortly after Bonney was indicted by an Oxford County grand jury Jan. 4 on four charges stemming from the Dec. 17 car crash that killed the 24-year-old Parisien, including manslaughter, aggravated driving under the influence with excessive blood alcohol, leaving the scene of a personal injury accident and driving to endanger.
Parisien, a former All-American college skier, died of multiple injuries after his car was struck twice by another and forced off Route 26 into a tree in Bethel, according to Maine State Police.

Bonney was arrested minutes after the accident on Route 26 in West Paris and charged with driving under the influence.

In the days immediately following the fatal crash, police worked to obtain evidence that might link Bonney's car—which matches one described by witnesses—to the accident scene.

According to the formal motion, lawyer Albert J. Beliveau Jr. is seeking to have blood alcohol test results suppressed, statements made by Bonney to police shortly after his arrest, as well as physical objects "including, but not limited to, pieces of the defendant's car, samples of paint from the defendant's car and any identifications of the defendant."

Bonney has remained free on $20,000 single surety bail since his indictment in January.

CPS asbestos costs up again

By WENDY HANSCOM

It's going to cost SAD44 still more money to remove asbestos at the Crescent Park School.

The SAD44 school board voted Wednesday night to pay for the removal of an unexpected eight to 10 inches of blown-in insulation above the school's ceiling.

Because of earlier problems with the removal, the board had voted in June to relocate the CPS student body to Telstar High School for a year. The move cost the district roughly $50,000.

The insulation thickens

The ceiling at the CPS school contains a small amount of asbestos fibers.

There is also asbestos insulation in other parts of the building, such as pipe wrappings and a few floor tiles.

In April, the board accepted Raydick Inc.'s bid of $84,150 for removing the ceiling tiles.

Raydick officials based their bid on the reports of SAD44 officials, a site visit and jobs specs prepared by consultants from Industrial Hygiene of New England (IHNE).

All three sources determined that there were two inches of blown-in insulation above the school's ceiling, according to Superintendent Ronald Jenkins.

Prior to making its bid Raydick had looked through a small hole in one of the school's bathroom ceilings, Jenkins said, but only two inches of insulation was visible from there.

But when Raydick tore into the ceiling tiles, Jenkins said, the company found eight to 10 inches of the insulation.

School officials, IHNE and Raydick were previously unaware that a CPS roof hatch existed, he said.

Jenkins told the School Board Wednesday night that Raydick originally wanted between $50,000 and $70,000 extra to remove the additional insulation.

To complicate matters, the company had also requested an additional $5,985 for removing glass blocks near the windows in six classrooms. The glass blocks are in the way of removing ceiling tiles.

Jenkins said that at the time bids were made the contractors had no way of knowing about the problem with the glass blocks.

Who should pay

Most board members grudgingly agreed Wednesday night that SAD44 should kick in to pay for the problem with the windows and glass blocks.

But several members objected to paying any additional money to remove more insulation.

"I don't think we own this problem," said Woodstock Director T.L. McGee. "When I bid jobs as a contractor, I had to eat any additional costs. It seems to me the same thing should apply here."

"I find it hard to believe," said Bethel Director Merton Brown, "that when you're talking about a project at over $100,000 they didn't investigate further."

"The project is not bonded," Jenkins said, "and it's my feeling the contractor will walk if we don't come to an agreement."

Jenkins said he negotiated Raydick down to $34,442 to remove the additional insulation and deal with the glass blocks.

Some asbestos will stay

To save the district money some asbestos removal will not be done.

In June, Raydick agreed to remove an additional 10,000 square feet of vinyl asbestos tile, some carpet and replace the sprinkler heads.

The removal was approved by the school board, at a price tag of $27,590.

Raydick will still replace the sprinkler heads. But some vinyl floor tile containing asbestos will not be removed.

Jenkins said all asbestos termed as friable (i.e., fragile and could become airborne) will be removed. The remaining non-friable asbestos will be encapsulated and does not pose a threat as long as it is not disturbed, he said.

The $27,590 saved will be applied to removing the excess insulation. Jenkins said the district will end up paying another $6,852 on top of that for a combined expense of $34,442.

The money will come from the project's construction contingency account, Jenkins said. That account is roughly $200,000.

Jenkins said there may be a bright side to all this.

If removing the six to 10 inches of insulation had been put out with the original bid, he said, it might have ultimately cost the district $50,000 to $70,000 to remove it—instead of $34,442.

Second time around

This is the second time problems with asbestos removal at CPS has cost the district more money than originally predicted.

School officials discovered in late May that not all the walls between classrooms at CPS go all the way to the roof. So when the ceiling tiles containing asbestos came down, a large air pocket would be created above several CPS classrooms, according to Building and Grounds Committee chair Raymond Harrington.

CPS students would be left with noisy, cold, drafty learning space, he said.

The board voted to move the student body off site. District officials had originally planned to leave all students at CPS.

SAD44 Business Manager Bruce Powell estimated then that moving all the district's portables to Telstar and renting two additional units would cost roughly $50,000.

GROUND WORK--Contractors have begun laying the foundation of the addition to the Crescent Park School. Clerk of the works Jim Reuter told the SAD44 School Board last week that construction is on schedule. More than 200 feet of foundation walls are up, he said. Contractors plan to be off the site by August 1994, he said.

Ultraviolet exposure study

The Department of Environmental Protection is monitoring ultraviolet radiation ("Uv-b") at a University of Maine experiment station in Howland. The goal is to determine whether, over time, exposure to Uv-b is increasing. Information gained in the process will help DEP and the Department of Human Services assess the current and future impacts involved.

Scientists are concerned because the earth's stratospheric ozone layer, which normally blocks out most Uv-b, is getting thinner. The expectation is that more of the ultraviolet radiation will therefore reach the earth's surface. Long-term exposure to Uv-b is known to cause or contribute to skin cancers, glaucoma, and cataracts in humans, as well as to genetic damage in plants and animals.

At the Howland site, 30 miles north of Bangor, DEP is using sophisticated instruments to track radiation level changes during the next several years. Earlier attempts to monitor Uv-b elsewhere in the country were largely inconclusive because the equipment was set up in urban areas. At those sites, pollution typically absorbed the radiation before it reached the sensors.

Uv-b monitoring was first done in the 1970s. Questions regarding the environmental impacts of chlorofluorocarbons ("CFCs") and supersonic transport exhaust prompted the initial efforts. Interest heightened in 1985 with the discovery of the hole in the ozone layer over Antarctica.

The federal government is now conducting a monitoring program on a national scale. In June 1993, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) issued a statement encouraging precautions against over exposure to ultraviolet radiation during summertime outdoor activities.

They camped out on Peabody Island in Gilead, Dave Murphy's Island in Bethel and Martins Campground along the Ellis River. In addition to the camping the group enjoyed plenty of sunshine, good food, fishing, swimming in the Wild, Sunday and Ellis Rivers and numerous wildlife sightings including a cow moose and her twin calves. The Scouts were Fabian Corriveau, Daniel Wigley, Matt Ryerson, Brent Lake, Matt Koskela, Freeman Corriveau, Jayson Hebert and Randy Gross. The adult leaders were Ray Coolie, Al Lake and Mark Wigley.

Conservation school auction

"Canoeing lessons, used furniture, antique pistols, a portfolio review and hour financial consultation, camp cots, old tools, toys, an organ. That's just a sample of some of the items and services going up for bid at our auction," said Steve Wight, chairman of the board of directors of the Maine Conservation School. "I am very encouraged by the support we are getting from people in this community and around the state. It is going to be a great auction."

The auction will be held on Sat., Aug. 14, rain or shine, at the Conservation School on the shore of Lake Christopher in Bryant Pond. Proceeds will go to support the school's environmental education programs for children.

"What we need most right now are contributions of items and services," says Wight. "This is going to be a fun event and I encourage people to see what they'd like to contribute in support of the school's work with children." To contribute to the auction, contact Steve Wight at 665-2095 or 824-2410 or call the school at 665-2068. Items should be delivered in advance to the school and the staff has already started storing a variety of goods and materials.

The auctioneer will be David Murphy. The auction will begin promptly at 10 a.m. A list of the auction items will be published prior to the event.

Rifles for programs donated

The Maine Chapter of Safari Club International last week presented the school with six .22-caliber target rifles.

The Remington rifles, which are designed for beginning shooters, were purchased through a special program offered each year by Remington Arms Corp. at cost and will be used to assist the school's safety and wildlife conservation education program.

According to Camp Director Chitanya York, the program focuses on teaching safe hunting practices and the need to stress wildlife conservation methods to the younger population.

"We do not promote hunting nor do we discourage it," York said. "We only teach to ensure that if someone chooses to participate in the sport they will do so safely and with conservation in mind."

Ernie Fielder, past president of the Maine Chapter of Safari Club International, said that SCI is a non-profit organization that supports efforts to promote wildlife conservation while favoring safety.

For information about the school, write The Maine Conservation School, P.O. Box 188, Bryant Pond, ME 04219 or call 665-2068

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tanguay and three children from Baltimore, Md., have spent the last two weeks at their cottage here.

On a recent Sunday, Bob and Donna Folsom hosted a birthday party at their cottage home honoring the birthdays of her mother, Mrs. Arlene Tanguay of Gorham, N.H., and her aunt, Mrs. Celia Gorman of Bethel. Other guests were Donald Tanguay and family of Baltimore, Md., Debbie Martin and family of Gorham, N.H., Bobby and Debbie Folsom and daughter from No. Conway, N.H., Louis and Carleen Tanguay from Berlin, N.H., and Ms. Marion Kimball.

I spent ten days over last week with the Bean-Turner family in Otisfield. On Wednesday I went with Ethel and Craig, David Turner and Jonathan Bean to Houlton and Mars Hill. On their way to visit Craig's step-father at Presque Isle Hospital who had suffered a heart attack Wednesday morning, they dropped me off to visit a cousin in Westfield. On Thursday they, with Craig's brother John Turner, climbed Mt. Katahdin as far as Chimney Pond when the weather drove them off the mountain. My cousin and I spent the day visiting several other relatives in the Mars Hill area. We all returned to Otisfield Friday running into sunshine and showers all the way home.

Sunday I rode over to Keene, N.H., with Ethel to take Amber and a teammate to soccer camp. I had never been in that area before. I came home on Monday.

Not all the rain fell into the Midwest rivers--we actually had a rainy day here Thursday. I think it's too late to help some of the lawns and gardens much.

Bill and Phyllis Bancroft and Mrs. Grace Morrill attended the wedding in Lisbon Falls last Saturday of Stephanie Halle and Naval Lieutenant Brian Krolak. Stephanie was a U.S.M. graduate in the nursing program. He is stationed at Brunswick Naval Air Station. The reception was held at the Naval base.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cantin and friend from Florida spent a few days this week at the Poisson cottage.

Ben Michaud visited with his parents here last week.

Mrs. Louise Newton is receiving therapy for an allergic reaction to a medication. The Grants and two grandchildren, who are at their chalet in Newry, have been recent visitors. Another visitor was Louise's daughter, Colleen Bachelder from Mars Hill.

Bob and Leona Benson of Ozark, Ala., who are living in their camper at the old farm in West Paris, and Mrs. Lillian Chapman of Brownfield have been visiting their sister, Mrs. Louise Newton.

Mrs. Kassie Gatchell and Kaity of Auburn were overnight visitors here Thursday.

Dear Muddy,

A few years ago, when I was 10, you let me wear your diamond wedding band as I cavorted in the garden with sister Peg and the visiting teenage girl, whoever she was. Why did you hand over your jewels? Because the visitor was showing off her mother's emerald as she pranced around the yard, and first you gave up your sapphire to Peg. Then, when I saw that I was the only one playing with unadorned digits, you graciously, or otherwise, handed over the bejeweled band. Good thing you didn't relinquish the much more precious and weighty solitaire.

Off I went into the cabbage patch with the too-big ring on my too-little hand. The rest is history, as they say. The too big ring slipped off the small finger somewhere between the roses and the rhubarb, and no amount of careful searching turned up the elusive carats. For days I returned to the scene of the crime, convinced that I'd find the jewels. And for years, I've seen the garden in my mind's eye and watched a little girl poke and sift in vain.

The other day, as I walked around my own garden, watering here, weeding there, I lost my own diamond. I kid you not. The ring, which we had bought 37 years ago to satisfy your need to symbolize our betrothal, was back in service after a decade or two in the recesses of the jewelry box. Since we didn't have much money in the early years, and we bought the gem only to placate you, it was of necessity a small but sparkling little jewel...and after relegating it to the box and a prison of resentment for a few years, I had brought it back as a cut-down version which looked much more becoming on my baby finger. As a matter of fact, over the years, I found that I often left it on my hand, when all other adornments were removed for the evening, or when the hot weather caused some of my fingers to change size. The pinky ring never bothered me and so I often neglected to remove it. Such was the case when I went to my garden the other day...Somewhere between the begonias and the broccoli, the little gem took leave of its setting and apparently planted itself in the good earth, leaving a black hole that I only discovered when I went to the sink to wash my hands...My reaction was curious...My mind went into instant replay of that day in the 40s and of all the family searching the scene, and I heard myself calmly exclaim, "how fitting that I should lose it in yet another garden."

Of course Donald and I retraced my steps of the entire morning, and of course we didn't find the carat-third among the carrots or the coneflowers. We discovered that the soil, that we've worked so hard to enrich, still contains much sand, and that the sand contains many, many chips of quartz that glisten like you-know-whats when the sun beams down on them.

In the course of the search and in the days since the incident, I've made another discovery. I've found myself musing (I do a lot of that, have you noticed?) on the value of diamonds and other possessions, and comparing them to the riches that surround me. It has been a time of quiet contemplation of my gifts, so to speak, and I've been equating them to a number of gems:

- A ruby is pricey, but not nearly as precious as the people who make up my family and my friends. I know that their love and support can not be replaced by a gem, however grand.

- An emerald is green and glorious, but it can't hold a candle to the vision of verdance of our mountains and our fields.

- A garnet offers a brick red beauty to those born in January, but it can not replace the pleasure of making a chair or painting a clown for your sister Ann H., the garnet-wearer, or joining the people who gather in the village for church fellowship or for grange activity. A rainy grange picnic that relocates from poolside to garage and provides haven and happy times for 30 or more neighbors and friends is a surer heart-warming red than that of Sir Garnet.

- An amethyst is wonderful purple, but in can not match the rare power with which a nephew deals with the deadly virus within him, or the regal grace with which the family faces each day and each cloud. His life is a gift, and his courage is a lesson.

- A ruby in its royal redness can't compete with the joy of parenting three sons to manhood, one of whom shares the ruby birthstone with me. And when those sons fill our hearts with the wonder of their love, when we see them moving through their world with confidence and the security that they are loved, when we watch them share the goodness that we taught them, we are enriched with the rubies of our reality.

- Back we come to the diamond...that rare and precious gem that we all value and covet. There is no diamond that can compare to the joy of knowing that we walk this earth in peace. There is no diamond that can replace the fun of piling onto a bus with 36 other senior citizens in search of adventure. And to enjoy the serenity of a riverboat ride, gliding along the shores of the Songo, learning of the lore and the lure of the waterways of old, experiencing the day and the doings with the white-haired wise ones, is a pleasure without price. No diamond can replace the security of belonging, the knowledge of being loved, the anticipation of sharing. Those of us who know love, know that we are enriched beyond the value of jewels. Those of us who share and care for those around us, know the joy that comes from "being there" for others. These are

Curator Larry Billings has put a few handouts he typed in the Historical Museum for visitors. Robert and Mary Billings have given the museum a photo and complete history of the golden slippers. Eleven couples from Woodstock have received them on their golden anniversary. Paul Billings has given some photos of the museum itself. Surprisingly the society has few pictures of the museum or our collections. Mary and Larry Billings have supplied the Historical Museum with flowers this summer. Larry Billings has given a small perfume bottle. The society picnic is Aug. 14 at the Conservation Camp at 6 p.m. The plant sale at the museum will be on Aug. 21 from 1 to 4 p.m. Anyone wishing to donate house plants or perennials may leave them at the museum from 12:30 to 1 p.m. or with Kathleen McAllister or Annie Crockett at any time. The Historical Society offers the following observation about history by J. Russell Major--"History is useful because it enables us to draw on the experiences of others both in our own time and in past generations." T.S. Elliot said--"History is a pattern of timeless moments." James Robertson claims--"The community is a shifting cast of characters set in the scenery of a particular place." Mary, Robert and Paul Billings watched the museum recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt and Beatrice Farnum visited their daughter and family in Avoca, N.Y. for several days.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet at Locke Mills on Thursday, Aug. 5, at the Town Hall. Dinner will be put on by the Greenwood Fire Auxiliary and the program will be Mansfield Packard.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pay, Somersworth, N.H., have been guests of Mrs. Evelyn T. Bean.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

In the county of Oxford there is a little town known as Greenwood. To reach it one goes by road.

If one seeks for natural beauty, he will not search in vain. A visitor should be warned against disappointment and hasty judgment. It may be necessary to seek the hill roads. Skirting the lake regions and river scenes that are open and capable of satisfying demanding tastes one finds little help by making inquiries. A beautiful road is, in the thought of your informant, a smooth one. There is, however, one sort of beauty which he loves and mentions, the high-view. We have high-view points and these are worthwhile. There are many such places, including stretches of lakes and forests. Sometimes the inquirer cannot see, until they are pointed out the intimate and charming compositions which exist in the nooks and curves of valleys and brooks. The delight of the fence corners of stone walls are an unopened book. But, when these things are pointed out to him, he has the capacity of admiration.

I think one must seek for himself the many beauties around him. The mountain districts, as they are spread before a traveler are somewhat like a scene in the Greek Isles only that our elevations are beautifully wooded.

There is almost no end to cottage sites to be found, made up of a hill slope, below which lies a lake. The joy of a lake is as much in looking down upon it as in sailing over it.

A great many glories are in our landscapes, such as foregrounds of fields of daisies beyond which lie a pond or lake with evergreens in the distance.

The difference in a town is in knowing the people. Variety, that is the spice of our people. You don't have to dig far to find it. The man or woman coming into the store or post office has done something interesting or something remarkable. If not, wait a short time and they'll be along. Most small living is good but it's not a paradise without crime. Not only there is much beauty but there is a sense of values, a give and take among the people and a respect among them.

Much more could be written but I'll just say, "It's a small town but we are holding on tight."

There's love and happy living, A source of joy and pride, There's peace and quiet comfort With friends by our side.

The new members and several members of Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent 8 were in attendance. Also, at this time State Senator Dana Hanley was present and presented a flag to the Boy Scout Troop 15. Also, a flag was presented to them from the Daughters of Union Veterans. We were very glad to have them with us at this time. After the supper, the Daughters went to the K. of P. Hall where the meeting was held and the new members, Wilda and Crystal Wallace and Heidi Shugars, were inducted into the order. Past Department Presidents Gail Butterfield, Emogene Staples and Edith Pulkanen helped to do the floor work and initiation. General business was taken care of and we were so pleased to have our two oldest members with us, namely Gladys Kilgore and Helen Grover, 97 and 96 years old. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Thank-you notes were read from Wanda Jones, Sarah Grover and Eleanor Nelson and an invitation to the wedding reception of Jeanette Wentworth and Robert Rugg on Sunday, Aug. 14. The charter was draped in memory of Betty Stearns, who passed away this year. Helen Grover recited an appropriate poem for the occasion. A donation was accepted from Gladys Kilgore and a note of thanks for all the good work that has been done for her. Many thanks for all who helped on this supper meeting and the next meeting will be on Aug. 25 at the K. of P. Hall with Mary G. Jones furnishing light refreshments.

A railroad train in Bethel?...Which moved me to send in this story of years ago. It is called "The Railroad Crossing."

"I can't much tell about the thing, 'twas done so powerful quick; But 'pears to me I got a most outlandish heavy lick; It broke my leg, and tore my skull, and jerked my arm most out. But take a seat: I'll try and tell just how it came about."

"You see, I'd started down to town, with that 'ere team of mine, a-haulin' a load o' corn to Ebenezer Kline, and drivin' slow; for, for just about a day or two before, the off-horse run a splinter in his foot, and made it sore."

"You know the railroad cuts across the road at Martin's Hole; Well, thar I seed a great big sign raised high upon a pole; I thought I'd stop and read the thing, and find out what it said, and so I stopped the hosses on the railroad track, and read."

"I ain't no scholar, reckon, and so I had to spell; I started kinder cautious like, with R-A-I and L; and that spelt 'rail,' as clear as mud; R-O-A-D was 'road.' I lumped 'em; 'railroad' was the word, and that 'ere much I knowed."

"C-R-O and double S, with I-N-G to boot, made 'crossing' jest as plain as Noah Webster dared do it. 'Railroad crossing'....good enough; L-double OK, 'Look.' And I was looking all the time, and spellin' like a book, O-U-T spelt 'out' jest right; and here it was, 'LOOK OUT'; I's kinder cur'us, like, to know just what 'twas all about; F-O-R and T-H-E; 'twas then 'LOOK OUT for the;'" And then I tried the next word; it commenced with E-N-G.

"I'd got that fur, when suddintly there was an awful whack; a thousand fiery thunderbolts jest scooped me off the track; the hosses went to Davy Jones, the wagon smash, and I was histed seven yards above the tallest ash."

"I didn't come to life ag'in fur 'bout a day or two; but, though I'm crippled up a heap, I sorter struggled through; It ain't the pain, nor 'tain't the loss o' that 'ere team of mine; but stranger, how I'd like to know the rest of that 'ere sign...."

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Bea Lowell, Doris Parent and Sylvia Wright of the 'Newry Bowling Gang' were in Rumford on a day last week. Of the 'Lefties' Karlene was high on the triples beating Betsy by one pin. Betsy was high on the singles with one string of 116, beating Karlene's 108 by eight pins. Of the 'Righties' Sylvia was high on the singles and Bea was high on the triples. Betsy had five spares and one strike, Karlene five spares and two strikes, Gil one strike, Bea two strikes and one spare, Doris three spares and one strike, Sylvia two spares.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST?

We are often asked "What's the best way of finding out whether or not a doctor of chiropractic can help my problem?"

And to help you find out for sure, we will do a complete chiropractic consultation and examination, including x-rays (procedures may normally cost $110.00 or more) for $25.00

SUDBURY CANADA DAYS

Dr. Moses Mason House and Grounds, Bethel, Maine

Sudbury Canada was Bethel's name prior to the town's incorporation in 1796. It was so designated since the original grantees from Sudbury, Massachusetts, had fought unsuccessfully to conquer Canada in 1690. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which owned Maine until 1820, rewarded these men with land in the "District of Maine," naming it in honor of their Massachusetts town and the campaign in which they had served. This area was never part of Canada. Sudbury Canada Days honors the town's rich heritage dating from the 18th century.

ASK A LAWYER

If a State agency regulates an activity which significantly decreases your property value, or even renders it unsalable, what recourse do you have?

The Maine Constitution requires that all taxable property be assessed "equally, according to the just value thereof." The Maine Supreme Court has held that this means market value. Zoning and environmental restrictions on land use can have a substantial impact on market value, and these impacts are usually taken into account by local assessors in determining the taxable value of a property. If you disagree with your tax assessment, begin by asking for a review by your local tax assessor. If you then still disagree, you may appeal to your local board of assessment review, the County Commissioners, the State Board of Assessment Review, or the Superior Court. You should consult an attorney before attempting this.

You may be entitled to direct compensation for the loss in value suffered as a result of regulations restricting use of your property. The courts call this a "regulatory taking." In most cases, a reduction in property value as a result of regulations does not constitute a "taking" and therefore does not entitle you to compensation. However, there are exceptions.

In June 1992 the United States Supreme Court decided that when a state deprived a landowner of substantially all economic use of his property, it must compensate him. If a law's limits on the owner's use of property amount to a taking, the owner is entitled to receive compensation for its value. The title of the case is "Lucas v. South Carolina Coastal Council."

The Supreme Court's decision in "Lucas" is consistent with the Maine Supreme Court's holding in two earlier cases. An environmental regulation may amount to a compensable taking, if the property is deprived of all or most of its economic value as a result of the regulation. If you believe that this has happened to you, consult your attorney.

Finally, the impact of local zoning or state regulatory restrictions on the salability of your property is recoverable on your tax return only to the extent that you suffer a loss on its sale. Such losses are deductible just as are other business or investment losses. In some cases, you may also take an itemized deduction for restrictions you voluntarily place on your land, such as a conservation easement donated to your municipality or to a nonprofit conservation group. You should consult a tax accountant or attorney for further advice in this area.

"Ask a Lawyer" is published in cooperation with this paper and the Maine State Bar Association. The views expressed in this column are those of the author. Lawyers will answer questions on subjects of general interest. The column is meant as general information and should not be relied upon for advice in a specific case. For individual advice, consult your own attorney. If you do not have an attorney and believe you need legal advice, contact the Maine Lawyer Referral and Information Service at 622-1460.

MAINE SILENT FILM

A 1922 film made in Maine, "Timothy's Quest," discovered in a California collection, will be shown on Friday, Aug. 13 at Gould Academy's Bingham Hall.

The rare silent feature film was written by Kate Douglas Wiggin, author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and directed by Sidney Olcott. The film is being brought to Bethel in part through a grant from the Maine Arts Commission, and it is a featured event of Sudbury Canada Days.

As in the days before sound film, there will be a live piano accompaniment by Danny Patt, who began his career as a professional musician in 1924 when he was 12 years old playing for silent movies in Union. Patt will be playing a score he has created for "Timothy's Quest" with popular tunes from the turn of the century to the 1920s.

While a number of Wiggin's books were made into films, "Timothy's Quest" was by far her favorite, perhaps because it was filmed in Maine. Wiggin assisted with the production in Portland, Hollis, and Bridgton and wrote the screen titles herself.

"Timothy's Quest" was originally a novel written in 1890. The characters include Miss Vilda, the most well-to-do woman in town, and Samantha Ann, her housekeeper. These women are presented with a dilemma when orphans Timothy and Gay arrive on their doorstep asking if they are in need of a baby. The story contains themes and characters typical of 19th century New England fiction: a fallen woman (Miss Vilda's sister, Martha, gone to the city, disgraced and dead at an early age), a gossip and a comic farmhand, Jabe Slocum.

The film was brought to Maine by Northeast Historic Film, and this showing was made possible in part by support from the Hall Memorial Fund of the Bethel Historical Society.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethel Senior Citizens will meet Aug. 11 at Stony Brook Camping Area in Hanover. Bring something such as a salad to go with hamburgers and hot dogs. These will be furnished by the club. Time is 11 o'clock and it is the annual picnic. Bring something for the brown bag auction and money for the Augusta trip at this time. There are still seats available. More folding chairs would be welcomed.

Maine history lesson

Dr. David C. Smith, Bird Professor of American History at the University of Maine, will give the second Annual Hall Memorial Lecture on Thursday, Aug. 12 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, 7:30 p.m. His topic will be "The Main Themes of Maine History," and the lecture is free and open to anyone interested in attending.

This will be the first scheduled event of the 14th Annual Sudbury Canada Days, summer heritage festival of the Bethel Historical Society. Dr. Smith's appearance is made possible from income received from a bequest made in 1991 from the estate of long-time members Ralph and Marion Hall.

Dr. Smith was born in Lewiston in 1929. He lived his early life in Paris and Norway, Me., graduating from South Paris High School in 1947. He worked for a year at the Paris Tanning Company before enlisting in the U.S. Navy, where he spent four years primarily in the Caribbean and Mediterranean seas.

After his discharge from the Navy, he graduated from Farmington State Teachers College. He then earned a M.Ed. from the University of Maine (1956) and a M.A. in history and government from the same university in 1958. He received his Ph.D. from Cornell in 1965.

Dr. Smith taught history and economics at Hobart and William Smith College in Geneva, N.Y. from 1960 to 1965; since 1965, he has been a member of the Department of History at the University of Maine, where he has served as department chairman. He is Professor of Agricultural History in the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperating Professor of Quaternary Studies in the Institute of Quaternary Studies at Maine.

Author and/or editor of 17 books, he has also given invited lectures in Canada, the United Kingdom, Ireland, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden and about 20 universities in the United States. His writings have covered a number of fields, among them: history, women's studies, political psychology, English literature, popular culture, geology, historical climatology, and historical geography.

BIKE STILL LIFE—Triathlon bicycles rest after their stage of this weekend's Maine State Triathlon Classic. Joel Titcomb turned in the fastest men's time in the event; Carolyn Lockwood was the fastest woman. Other finishers will be listed in next week's Citizen.

DAVIS-DOCK FAMILIES CELEBRATE REUNION

Descendants of Sumner Prescott and Cora Farrar Davis were joined by descendants of Fredrick and Fredricka Dock at a reunion held at the Mundt-Allen American Legion Post Hall on Mollycockett Day.

Fifty-four members participated in this reunion--the first for this group.

Roger Dock initiated and coordinated this first reunion with help from family members.

Eighty-year-old Martha Dock Graver was the "senior" of the gathering, having traveled with a caravan of Docks and Gravers from Woodstock and Saugerties, N.Y.

Lively 1 1/2-year-old Susan Keniston, daughter of Peter and Stacey Keniston of Turner and granddaughter of Robert and Virginia Davis Keniston, Bethel, was the youngest.

A highlight of the day was the reunion of all five of Norman and Phyllis Davis Dock's now-grown children: Dr. Stephen V. Dock, Greenville, N.C.; Roger L. Dock, Glastonbury, Conn.; Gretchen M. Dock, Newton, Mass.; James J. Dock, Beaverton, Ore.; Nancy H. Dock, El Cajon, Calif. This was their first time together in 23 years.

The group expressed the hope that another reunion will be held again next year.

1993 FURBEARER SEASONS

Trapping and hunting seasons for furbearers have been announced by the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife.

Trapping of the following furbearers will be legal statewide from Oct. 31 through Dec. 31: bobcat, coyote, fisher, fox, marten, mink, muskrat, opossum, otter, raccoon, red squirrel, skunk, and weasel. There will also be a special statewide trapping season for coyote and fox from Oct. 24 through Oct. 30.

Statewide hunting seasons on furbearers are: raccoon, Oct. 1-Dec. 31; bobcat, Dec. 1-Jan.31; fox, Oct. 25-Feb.28; skunk and opossum, Oct. 25-Dec. 31.

The beaver trapping season in Wildlife Management Units 1, 2, 3, and 5 will run from Dec. 1 to March 31, except that a section of northern Unit 2 opens Nov. 1. Beaver trapping in Units 4, 6, 7, 8 will be legal Jan. 1 to Feb. 28, except that it opens Dec. 1 in the northern portion of Unit 4.

A trapping rule that was new last year has been continued for this year. It prohibits the setting or tending of any traps within 10 feet of a beaver or muskrat den or house; within five feet of a beaver dam; or within four feet of a beaver trap set by another trapper.

DINO-SWISH--Ryan Trefethen had no trouble putting six of his ten eggs in one bucket during the Bethel Library's recent Summer Olympics. Ryan was competing here in the dinosaur-egg (golf ball) toss, one of a variety of events designed to test the skills of the young Olympians. And Ryan, 5, is not only a good shot--he was also the first youngster to complete his 25 books in the library's summer reading program.

BETHEL ACCEPTS GRANTS

At a special Town Meeting Thursday, Bethel voters (ten of them, including town officials) voted unanimously to accept two grants to cover the state's share of the cost of closing the town landfill and sealing cracks in the runway at the Col. Dyke Airport.

The landfill grant is for $15,000, the airport grant for approximately $2,500. The town's contributions to both projects had been previously approved by voters.

ANY-DEER APPLICATIONS

Hunters who want to take a deer of either sex this fall are reminded of the approaching application deadline for Maine any-deer permits.

The Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife says that the deadline is normally Aug. 15, but because that is a Sunday this year, applications will be accepted postmarked Aug. 16 or delivered to its Augusta office before 5 p.m. that day.

The department urges anyone who received a permit application in the mail to use that one. Application forms are also available from hunting and fishing license agents or from any of its regional offices.

The department will issue about 44,500 permits this year. Winners will be determined in a computer drawing late in September. Hunters who do not have a permit are limited to hunting for adult buck deer.

Any-deer permits are allocated among 18 deer management districts based on local deer population conditions. The statewide goal is to gradually increase the deer population to 300,000, or about 20 percent.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

Seemingly stamped indelibly upon the unregenerate human heart is the erroneous impression that ones getting to heaven when he dies is based upon "living a good life" here on earth.

"Good" is a very relative term and its definition could depend on such things as ones culture, social customs, moral standards and many other things, such as, term definitions and varied personal concepts.

The question, therefore, could be asked, "How good is good?" In parts of Africa, for example, it would be considered "good" to have as many wives at one time as you wanted. In America it would be illegal and therefore not good.

The Bible tells us in Psalm 24:1 "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof..." What is true of earth would certainly be true of heaven. Therefore, God the Father could set the conditions as to entering heaven, could he not?

There are two verses in the New Testament that seem to very directly and explicitly settle the whole matter. They read as follows: "By grace are ye saved through faith, and not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; not of works lest any man should boast." (Eph. 2:8,9).

Someone has rightly said you can make the Bible say anything if you use your own definition of terms, and take various verses from their context. So, as we read these few lines I am using what I believe is the generally accepted definitions found in Christian theology.

The word "grace" is accepted to mean "unmerited favor or kindness." This is connected to the word saved, verb. "Saved" from what, one could logically ask. The penalty, power and one day the presence of sin.

"Sin" according to early theologians is: "the transgression of and the lack of conformity to the law of God." Sin, therefore, is not necessarily something wrong we do, but also something right that we do not do. (See James 4:17) So God's word therefore tells us: "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God. There is none righteous, no not one." (Rom. 23:10)

So according to God's standard there are just no "good" people. Thus getting to heaven by good works is ruled out. The second verse of our text tells us why.

Therefore, the matter of being "saved," dealing with the penalty of sin, which is death, getting to heaven, receiving eternal life, is a "gift of God" as the text indicates.

In working for something we get a wage. Receiving a "gift," however, is receiving something "for free" as we say today. A gift, however, is free to the receiver, but costs the giver something.

This brings us to the basic premise of the Gospel itself as seen in I Cor. 15:3,4, which in five simple words is a profound Christian truth, "... Christ died for our sin..." In other words, as has been said, He (Christ) paid a debt He did not owe for those (all mankind) who owed a debt they could not pay. Thus we read in Romans 3:23 "The wages of sin are death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Thus we see that we do not get to heaven by "being good" or even by trying, as the text clearly indicates. Getting into heaven, receiving eternal life is just simply a "gift of God." If we could earn our way to heaven it would be a wage not a gift.

To receive this gift from God we must meet certain conditions, other scriptures indicate. One must turn away from all that they know to be wrong. This is called repentance. Next, one must acknowledge they have committed sin and ask God to forgive them. He will, the Bible tells us, therefore, forgive us of all sin. (See I John 1:9) Then we place our faith in Christ as the one who bore the penalty of our sins on the cross as our Saviour. There, by the grace of God (the same grace that saved us) we must determine, by the help of the Holy Spirit who comes into our hearts, to be obedient to every work of God.

There will also be a number of small prizes raffled off and a 50/50 raffle.

Tickets are $10 per person and are available at the Main Street Beauty Shop, Sandy White at the Chapman Inn and Edie Milligan. This is a BYOB event. Money donated to the clinic will help support treatment of local victims of CF, according to benefit organizers.

Card of Thanks

A special thank you to the Doctors, nurses and staff of Stephens Memorial Hospital for the wonderful care I received after my operation.

In Loving

Memory of

Eugene E. Buswell

on his birthday

October 10, 1920

Memories are treasures, no one can steal. Memories are heartaches no one can heal. Some may forget you now that you're gone. But we will remember you no matter how long.

To your grave, we often wonder, the flower we place with loving care, but not one knows the heartache as we turn and leave you there.

Loving and sadly missed
